WELCOME TO OAXACA

¡WELCOME TO ATMEX 2025!

“2025, BICENTENNIAL OF THE FIRST POLITICAL CONSTITUTION OF THE FREE AND SOVEREIGN STATE OF OAXACA”

Oaxaca is a tourist destination with immense potential, reflected in its natural, geographical, ethnic, and cultural diversity. The state's tourism offerings range from breathtaking colonial sites and archaeological zones to stunning beaches and natural reserves. Oaxaca is also home to a rich presence of indigenous communities, whose countless traditions and customs, harmoniously blended with European colonial influences, shape the unique identity and legacy of this generous land.

The eight regions of Oaxaca offer a vibrant environment, rich in cultural and ethnic heritage. This greatness can be experienced both in the streets of Oaxaca City and in the many communities across the state, serving as a living testament to Oaxacan identity.

We are delighted to welcome you to this land, proud of its roots, where you will always find reasons to enjoy, rest, and unwind. Here, you can immerse yourself in unique celebrations and thrilling adventures while exploring Oaxaca's natural and cultural attractions. These experiences are complemented by an excellent and diverse range of tourism services, including transportation, accommodations, gastronomy, and more. Oaxaca is a state that proudly honors its traditions, cuisine, and ancestral heritage, distinguished by the warmth and hospitality of its people.

It is an honor to host you in a state that boasts six Pueblos Mágicos, the Barrio Mágico of Jalatlaco, ten Tourism Routes, archaeological sites, Protected Natural Areas, and countless places filled with history, biodiversity, and artistic expressions.

Everything is set to welcome professionals like you, who will contribute to the enrichment of the most important adventure tourism event in Mexico and Latin America. Unforgettable experiences await you in the cultural heart of Mexico.

Sincerely,

Mtra. Saymi Pineda Velasco

MARCH 13:

09:35 - 10:15 - Body and Nature: The Journey Towards Conscious Tourism.

Exploring nature with an awakened body means traveling with awareness. Movement grounds us in the present, heightens our senses, and connects us to the living energy of our surroundings. Elevated tourism emerges from this connection: more than just visiting, it is about inhabiting, feeling, and becoming one with nature.

10:30 - 11:10 - Every Journey is an Inner Journey.

This session explores the immense potential of profound experiences that can arise through tourism. Travel serves as a portal—an opportunity to discover a power, wisdom, and connection within yourself that you may have never known before.

Much like the archetype of the Hero's Journey, venturing into the unknown expands our perspective, offering new and deeper ways to see and approach life. And when we return home, we bring back the lessons learned to share with others, making this great journey not just an external adventure, but a journey within.

Step into nature, and step into yourself!

Marine Turtle Conservation and Environmental Education as Tools for Community Mental Health.

La conservación de las tortugas marinas, en combinación con la educación ambiental, se ha demostrado como una estrategia eficaz no solo para proteger a estas especies vulnerables, sino también para promover la salud mental de las comunidades locales. La relación entre la naturaleza y el bienestar psicológico es un campo de estudio que ha ganado atención en las últimas décadas, especialmente en regiones donde las personas interactúan directamente con el medio ambiente. El cuidado de las tortugas marinas no solo implica la protección de un recurso natural valioso, sino que también puede ser un camino hacia el fortalecimiento de la resiliencia colectiva y el fomento de una comunidad más saludable emocionalmente.

Las tortugas marinas, especies clave en los ecosistemas marinos, enfrentan diversas amenazas como la caza furtiva, la destrucción de su hábitat, la contaminación y el cambio climático. La conservación de estas especies no solo es crucial para la biodiversidad, sino también para la salud del medio ambiente, lo cual tiene un impacto directo en las personas que dependen del mar para su sustento. La protección de las tortugas implica la restauración de playas, la reducción de desechos plásticos y el establecimiento de áreas de anidación seguras, lo que genera un ambiente más saludable tanto para las especies como para las personas.

En este contexto, la educación ambiental juega un papel clave. Al involucrar a las comunidades locales en programas educativos sobre la importancia de las tortugas marinas y el ecosistema marino en general, se fomenta un sentido de conexión con la naturaleza. Las personas que entienden el impacto que sus acciones tienen sobre el medio ambiente suelen desarrollar una mayor conciencia ecológica, lo que a su vez reduce el estrés y la ansiedad. El simple hecho de saber que sus esfuerzos están contribuyendo a la conservación de especies vulnerables puede generar un sentido de propósito y satisfacción personal, lo cual es un factor protector para la salud mental.

HUGOLINO IBÁÑEZ

VIVE MAR ONG

President

Hugolino Ibáñez López was born on October 10, 1964, in the community of Bajos de Chila, located in Costa Esmeralda, just 12 minutes from Puerto Escondido. He studied L.R.C. with a specialization in C.I. at the I.P.N., and one of his greatest achievements has been founding one of the largest conservation and regenerative ecotourism organizations on the coast of Oaxaca: VIVE M.A.R. (Mangroves, Birds, and Reptiles).

His work has proven that the fight against wildlife exploitation was not in vain. Environmental advocates have long argued that natural resources are more valuable alive than dead, and today, that belief stands as his legacy. Through his efforts, he has created jobs within the community by protecting coastal ecosystems, particularly marine turtles, helping to restore their populations through non-extractive conservation efforts and raising awareness about the importance of preserving collective heritage.

Hugo Mar Ibáñez, born on April 22, 1991, in Bajos de Chila, Oaxaca, Mexico, has dedicated over 14 years of his life to marine turtle conservation and environmental education. His passion for nature also led him to scientific bird banding, a field in which he has been actively working for six years. As Camp Director, he leads conservation projects with a comprehensive approach, protecting all species and promoting respect for ecosystems.

For Hugo, conservation is not just a job but a spiritual calling. He believes that all living beings have a purpose in maintaining the Earth's balance, and he sees his mission as protecting nature and passing this message on to future generations. His deep love for the environment drives him to continue fighting for a more conscious and harmonious future.

Promoting Community Well-being Through Tourism: The Innovative Planeterra Model.

Planeterra is a leading non-profit organization that leverages community tourism as a tool to transform lives. Despite being a global industry, tourism often fails to directly benefit local communities and businesses. In many cases, the revenue generated by tourism does not reach local hands. Planeterra works to break this cycle by supporting and promoting community-based tourism, creating economic opportunities, protecting natural places, and celebrating cultures through travel.

Planeterra's innovative model establishes sustainable connections between local communities and major global travel companies, ensuring that authentic, enriching experiences offered by communities become accessible to the global market. This approach not only enables travelers to engage in unique and meaningful experiences, but also ensures that local communities directly benefit from tourism, providing long-term economic sustainability for community tourism businesses.

Through this model, Planeterra strengthens the social and economic fabric of communities, ensuring that tourism-generated income is reinvested in local development, cultural preservation, and environmental protection. This creates a virtuous cycle of benefits for all stakeholders. Additionally, partnerships with global tourism companies help them achieve their sustainability goals by promoting more responsible and impactful tourism
